"A boat trip in the North Sound with expert narration by staff of the Cayman Islands Department of Environment explaining the biology and ecology of the critically important mangrove habitat surrounding the North Sound and its interrelatedness with the adjoining seagrass and fringing coral reef habitats. Information on our Marine Protected Areas will also be provided. This is your other chance to have any environmental questions answered in a more informal open-air setting".